FCRA Registration

INTRODUCTION

The Foreign Contribution Regulation Act, or FCRA, is a law that controls and regulates international contribution made inside the India. Any registered trust, society, agency, organization, or NGOs must obtain or receive an FCRA Registration Certificate granted by the government authority in order to procure or receive any international donation or foreign grants.

The prime goal of FCRA registration is to permit the acceptance of any foreign donation from domestic institutions and to ensure that the contributions are used appropriately for the stated purpose.

Organizations that fall under Section 8, such as local governments, societies, charitable trusts, and so on, require a donation from a foreign source. Above all, any organization that does not have an FCRA certificate is not allowed to receive support from foreign countries. As a result, in the case of an international donation, online FCRA registration is required. You can find a full guide to in relation to FCRA registration for NGO and FCRA online resources here.

ADVANTAGE OF FCRA REGISTRATION

MINIMUM OBLIGATION FOR FCRA REGISTRATION

Basically FCRA registration is divided into two categories. You must be familiar with both so that you can quickly determine which one is needed-

1. Obligation for Prior Permission registration

This form is for a newly recognized organization seeking financial assistance from other countries and outlets. As a result, there are certain minimum standards, which are as follows:

- Money must be used for a specific reason.
- While applying for registration, the details of Foreign owner's or donor's full name and address, and
- a newly registered organization seeks to accept an international donation or award, it must first obtain approval

2. Obligation for Proper registration

To be eligible for FCRA certification, an entity or trust must satisfy all of the criteria mentioned below:

- The company or applicant must be registered and have worked for at least five years.

- The company would have spent at least 10 lakh in the previous three years to meet its objectives.

Note: This does not include operating costs.

- Audited Account statements for the previous three years must be given at the time of enrollment.

ELIGIBILITY TO OBTAIN FCRA REGISTRATION

FCRA registration is required for all non-government entities and trusts, as mentioned above. (Those who receive monetary help from a foreign source). Now it's time to see if you're qualified for an FCRA certificate. The applicant must not be a profit-making entity, and they must not be prohibited under Section 3 of the FCRA to be registered (2010). There are only a few items that are permissible, and they are as follows:

The following organizations are eligible to apply for FCRA registration:

- Societies that have been registered under the Indian Society Registration Act
- Trusts registered under the Indian Trust Act
- Section-8 company registered under The Companies Act
- The applicant must be a registered non-profit organization (NPO) with charitable goals for supporting society by encouraging health, education, economic advancement, promotion of art, music, faith, athletics, and so on.
- The organization must not be restricted in any way by the Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act, and
- Any foreign contribution approved must not threaten the life or welfare of any person or result in any crime.

There are a number of other considerations that must be made during FCRA registration. Meeting for any eligibility will determine whether or not the company is eligible to receive the benefits. Save money on taxes, for example.

NON-ELIGIBILITY TO OBTAIN FCRA REGISTRATION

The following applicants are not eligible for FCRA registration:

- The claimant is either fictional or Benami in nature.
- An candidate who has been arrested or tried for indulging in some unfair action
- An applicant who has been convicted or charged for causing communal unrest in any area of a given district or anywhere in the world

- Is involved in any unlawful activities
- Has used foreign donations for personal gain
- Any person barred from receiving any international reception or foreign award under any provision of law;
- India's sovereignty
- Public interest
- Relationships with other countries

OVERVIEW ABOUT FCRA REGISTRATION RENEWAL

- The registration certificate's validity has been limited to 5 years under the updated FCRA 2010. It should be remembered that under previous legislation, FCRA registration was virtually permanent until it was revoked. The FCRA 2010 requires organizations to update their registration every five years.
- Organizations who want to extend their registration certificate will do so six months before it expires by filling out Form FC-3C online.
- Existing registrations under the FCRA, 2010, will expire after the five-year term from the date of grant of registration has expired, and they will no longer be able to receive international donations. In this situation, the association would have to reapply for registration.

INVESTIGATION AT THE TIME OF FCRA RENEWAL

The process for FCRA renewal is outlined in Section 16 of the FCRA Act of 2010, which must be completed every five years. However, the aforementioned provision does not grant the department the authority to conduct any investigation when processing the renewal application, even though the FCRA department can conduct audits and inspections at any time under sections 20 and 23, respectively. However, in both sections 20 and 23, the Central Government must have a valid cause to start an investigation or audit.

However, the FCRA Amendment Act of 2020, enacted on September 29, 2020, states that the central government has the authority to make inquiries and satisfy itself as to Section 12(4) conformity prior to FCRA renewal. It's worth noting that Section 12(4) is the law that governs authentication at the time of registration. To put it another way, the government can conduct similar investigations before renewing FCRA registration. As a result of the proposed amendment, the extension process has been identical to the registration or prior permission process.

POSTPONED OF RENEWAL APPLICATION

If an NGO does not apply for renewal by the deadline, its registration will be revoked. However, if appropriate explanations for not sending the renewal application are given, the department could be willing to overlook the delay. A pending application for renewal may be sent up to one year after the FCRA Certificate expires.

The validity of a person's certificate of registration shall be deemed to have ceased from the date of completion of the term of five years from the date of grant of registration if no application for renewal of registration is issued or such application is not followed by the required fee, according to Rule 12(6) of the FC(R) Rules 2011. For example, if no application is made or is not followed by the renewal charge, the validity of the registration certificate granted on November 1, 2016 will be considered to have lapsed as of October 31, 2021.

FCRA REGISTRATION CANCELLATION/SUSPENSION

If officials believe that a licensed company is not acting in accordance with the legislation and that its license should be revoked, they will do so by sending a notice to the concerned entity. The below are some of the factors to remember before terminating the license:

- The Foreign Contribution (Regulation) Act is not being followed by the NGO.
- If an agency fails to file an annual return by the deadline
- In the event that some allegation of wrongdoing in activities is brought against such an organisation, and the allegation is shown to be valid,
- Contributions obtained are not used to achieve the entity's key goal or the intent specified in the FCRA registration application.

THINGS TO STAY AWAY FROM DURING THE FCRA

- Never combine domestic or personal account receipts with an international donation.
- If you've applied for the FCRA program, don't change your opinion
- Should not use ATM or debit cards. The Foreign Contribution Bank usually does not have an ATM or debit card. In the meantime, if you have one, do not use it to make any cash payments.
- If you want to get the most out of your perks, avoid cash withdrawals.
- Don't put the Foreign Contribution money into some kind of savings or liquid fund. Mutual funds, investing, and so on
- If you're on a world trip, stay away from foreign hospitality.
- Do not use FC for any form of personal or administrative function.
- May not accept foreign contributions if your FCRA registration is on hold, cancelled, or approval has not been given.
- Foreign contributions can never be accepted in any bank account other than an FC account.

- Never skip any of the Section 18 annual returns that are needed.

Furthermore, avoiding any of these blunders would aid in the smooth operation of your firm or confidence.
